Malpractice Statement

Integrity of the Data

Authors should ensure that the data they present are collected, analysed and reported as stated in the methods section of the manuscript. Where appropriate, inclusion and exclusion criteria for a study should be clearly stated, as should a-priori hypotheses regarding the distribution of the data. Any post-hoc analyses, particularly where adjustment of analytical groups occurs, should be clearly identified and justified.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the wrongful presentation of the thoughts ideas or data of another researcher and representing them as one's own work. References to the work of others should be clearly identified and acknowledged as such.

Simultaneous Submission

Manuscripts should not be submitted to this Journal when already submitted or under consideration by another journal.

Duplicate and redundant publication

This Journal publishes original submissions. Duplicate or redundant publication occurs when the content overlaps substantially with an article or paper already in print. Details regarding any such previous publications should be made explicit with the submission.

Author Contribution and Attribution

All the listed authors must have made a significant scientific contribution to the research in the manuscript and approved the final version.

Citation Manipulation

It is acceptable for an author to cite their own work, but not to increase their citation rating by doing so.

Compliance and Sanctions

It is the authors' responsibility to ensure that manuscripts submitted for publication comply with all of these criteria. Authors of submissions that do not meet these criteria may, at the Managing Editor's discretion, be: a) invited to revise and resubmit the manuscript to ensure that it does comply or b) informed that the manuscript will not be accepted for submission and/or c) informed that any further submissions by the submitting authors and/or based on the same data or research project will not be considered for publication for a period of time as determined by the Managing Editor.
